

Keep on track with redlining and auditing information

Simple and efficient forwarding invaluable information

The AND Redliner option for AND WebAccess enables field staff to forward invaluable redlining and auditing information to their office colleagues responsible for network design and documentation. Use a finger, e-pen, or simply type in comments. When finished, send off the redlinings – it's as simple as that.

AND client users with activated task plug-in are informed of any new redlining tasks. These can then be processed and archived when finished.

As soon as the database has been updated field staff have the latest version of the network documentation normally within seconds.
